Child Sexual Abuse Reduction Research Network - Call for Proposals

Leiden, The Netherlands - December 5-6, 2024

The Child Sexual Abuse Research Network seeks to combat online child sexual abuse (CSA) through interdisciplinary workshops that bring together scholars, practitioners, government agencies, and private and not-for-profit organizations from around the world. More specifically, this network brings key researchers and thought leaders together to share their work, foster new collaborations, and develop unified solutions to better address the most pressing issues of online CSA. We welcome abstract/paper submissions across a broad range of areas, including identifying factors associated with offending, the development of forensic tools aimed at improving investigatory practices, the promotion of interventions oriented around reducing victimization, and exploring new ways to support victims, amongst other relevant topics.

This event will be hosted by Leiden University on December 5-6, directly before the Illicit Networks Workshop in Leiden from December 9-10. Workshop participants may want to attend both events. The city of Leiden is conveniently located at a 15 minute train ride from Amsterdam Schiphol Airport. The conference venue is located in the beautiful historical city center.

Cost of registration fee (including all event catering), social events, and 2 nights' accommodation in Leiden will be covered by the organizing committee for the lead presenter on all accepted and delivered papers. Co-authors are welcome to attend as delegates. Papers will be included in a special issue of a leading international academic journal.

Proposals for presentations/papers (maximum 1 page in length) can be submitted be sending an email to: ablokland@nscr.nl or a.koning@vu.nl before May 12th 2024, mentioning CSARNN2024 in the title. Proposals should include the title, authors, author affiliations of the presentation, and a clear description of the research questions, data, and methods of analysis used.
